B3BUZZ

For your new Allied Health B3Hub workspace

Activity-Based Working (ABW) at WSLHD | No. 4 February 2018

Off to a great start

Our three groups used a ribbon challenge to illustrate their ABW know-how

Our B3Hub program is off to great start with more than 60 allied health staff attending three introductory sessions for activity-based working last week.

The workshops covered the basics for ABW - what it is, what it's not and how we get from our current way of working to the new activity-based working.

"It was great to have so many staff members attend, and to hear what people valued about their workplace," said project manager Robyn Campbell.

"We want to make sure that the new workplace encourages those positive aspects of work such as the friendly culture, the supportive atmosphere and teamwork."

Issues including IT, privacy and confidentiality were also raised in the sessions and will be addressed as part of the transition program.

The next round of sessions will include the leadership and support staff workshops.

We said...

I love working with my team but I'm also looking forward to collaborating with the other disciplines

Blacktown is good at a change. We're leaders in the State. I'm glad that we're going first.

I value the learning environment. I want to take every opportunity I can to learn.

Will we have enough space and will the ones be compatible with the kind of work we do?

We value innovation. I think this is a chance to give Allied Health a stronger identity and make what we do more visible.

I don't want to lose connection with my team

What happens when we all arrive together?

I don't want to leave our office space. I'm not sure about the change.

It will be great to work in an environment that suits you

I like the idea of tap-on, tap-off computers and printing

This is a great opportunity for teamwork, collaboration, flexibility and change

We would like..

Better access to IT, devices and tools | More space for our students | To use more tech in our work | Get rid of paper diaries - how can we do that when our colleagues still use them?

Challenges...

Finding each other

Access to space

Privacy, confidentiality

Will there be enough space in peak times?

Planning the day's work with our team

Paper! How can we use less paper?

What happens when we all arrive together?

Not having your own space

Sometimes we deal with very distressing information - I'm worried about my colleagues hearing things like that...

How do we manage the kitchen and storage areas? Will there be enough fridge space?
